morality which it inculcates.

It is, to me, a matter of deep regret, that our Lodges generally in Mississippi are in a sadly demoralized condition. The same, I am told, is the case in Tennessee and Arkansas. The widespread immorality of our brethren may afford consolation to the wicked heart that loves company, and laughs at his own depravity; but, surely, to the upright Mason it must be a source of the deepest mortifi-cation that our ancient and honorable Order is threatened with disgrace by fie foul spirits who have been permitted, by an infraction of the ancient constituti to occupy seats which they are not worthy nor qualified to fill. In all the Lodges with which I have any acquaintance the three great popues, Profane Swearing, Drinken d Gambling are tolerated. I have been trying, for some years ast, to induce our brethren to enforce SPECHT'S CONFECTIONARY REOPENED!

His face was indeous to see at this moment.

His wild eyes wandered from one convict to the other; his hands were clasped, his body was bent in an attitude of humble entrosty; there was, in fact, in the whole expression of his being, all that there is most ville in meanness most dastary y in fear.

He wanted to speak, but his teeth chaitered.
